A Universal Family Theme – Sibling Rivalry and the Concept of Fairness

Teaches empathy and conflict resolution

Strong emotional intelligence theme: true fairness means listening to individual needs

Madlen Ottenshläger, Lisa Rammensee (Ill.)

So Unfair!

32 pages • 22,05 × 28,6 cm

Age: 3+

ISBN 978-3-551-52225-2

09/2026

The Bear family is constantly arguing: nothing is ever fair!

So they decide to make everything strictly equal – same food, same space, the same slice of cake measured with a ruler. The result? Nobody is happy.

A funny, warm-hearted picture book about the real difference between fairness and sameness.

A Loveable Duo: A Girl and Her Wonderfully Chaotic Elephant Sidekick

- Celebrates friendship and teamwork
- Imaginative, humorous storytelling that speaks directly to young children's feelings
- Warm, expressive illustrations that bring the comedy to life on every page

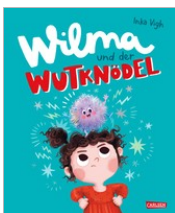

Being small is no fun – you always must do what the grown-ups say. So Tilly orders an elephant from a delivery service to help her solve all her problems. But the elephant Bo has his own ideas, and chaos quickly follows. Together, they discover that big or small doesn't matter – what counts is doing things together.

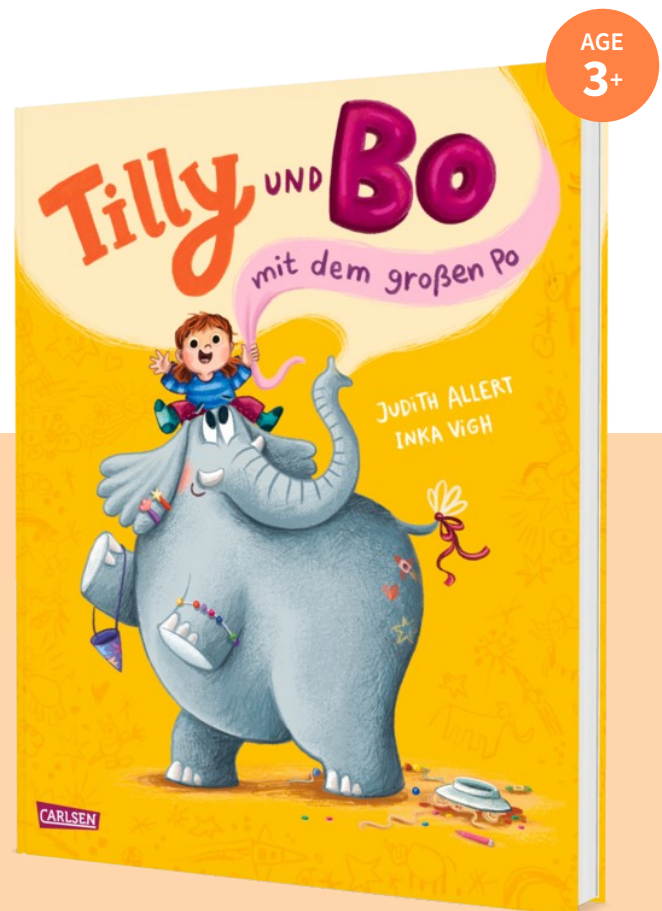

Judith Allert lives with her husband and many animals on an old farm. She enjoys to think of new stories while weeding and making space for flowers in her garden.

Inka Vigh used to live in California, Beirut and Budapest. She likes fleemarkets and drinking tea. Though she's most happy when she illustrates.

Inka's previous book has sold old more than 12,000 copies!

When three siblings spend a weekend in a cabin with their aunt, the dark feels full of monsters. But their aunt takes them on a journey through nature's glowing wonders – bioluminescence, fireflies, the northern lights. Suddenly, the dark is not something to fear, but something to marvel at.

Marta Balmaseda is a Spanish illustrator. Her illustrations are known not only in Germany, but also in Spain, England, and the USA. Besides illustrating children's books, she has also worked with a non-profit organization for the last five years designing murals for children's hospitals in various countries.

Encourages Children to See the World Through Others' Eyes

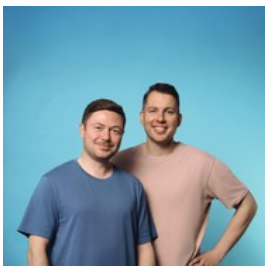

Suitable for use in kindergartens and early years settings

A warm adventure about friendship, empathy and perspective-taking

The Mindful Tiger dreams of flying. The toucan longs to dive. The seahorse wants to walk on land. When the millipede's thousand shoes go missing, the friends set off together – over land, through the sea and up into the sky.

An interactive adventure about friendship & empathy!

The third adventure with the Mindful Tiger and his friends is due in August 2027.

Max & Niclas are a children's book author duo from Berlin who have known each other since school time. Max is an all-round talent in the media world who can direct, edit, and perform magic (well, almost). Niclas is an actor, podcaster, and entrepreneur with a special flair for bringing characters to life. Together, they write stories that they themselves would have loved as children. Their motto: If you want something really badly and try really hard, anything can happen – even becoming a children's book author!

Ekaterina Savic is an illustrator who has never turned her back on the pencil. After five years as an architect, drawing blueprints, she decided to pursue her true dream: illustrating children's books and board games.

Do Animals Have Feelings? Science Says: Very Probably Yes.

- Large-format non-fiction picture book with stunning hand-painted gouache illustrations
- Covers a wide range of species and ecosystems – broad educational appeal
- Suitable for use in kindergartens, primary schools and family reading

What are feelings actually good for? And do only humans have feelings, or do animals feel as well? Humans can express themselves through language and tell each other about their feelings. Animals can't use words to say what they're experiencing, but they have their ways... With stunning hand-painted gouache illustrations, the non-fiction picture book explores how elephants grieve, why chimpanzees smile, what makes crocodiles happy and much more.

Laura Fuchs works as an author and illustrator in a picturesque town where her dog chases the gulls while Laura herself chases new ideas.

Florian Fuchs discovered his enthusiasm for unusual stories and fantasy when he was still a child. Back then he had no idea that years later, as an author and illustrator, he would be creating his own worlds.

Helping Children Understand Their Anger

- Includes an afterword with practical guidance for parents
- By bestselling parenting expert and author Nora Imlau

Tilly, a spirited little red panda, storms through life with courage and enthusiasm. But her frustration threshold is low, and anger often erupts when things do not go her way. With warmth and rhyming text, this book shows children and parents that anger is not something to hide, but a feeling worth listening to.

Joachim Meyerhoff has performed at many major theatres and has been named Actor of the Year three times for his work. His novels have also received numerous awards. With Josse, he is now publishing his first children's book. He has written Josse together with his partner Franziska Dorau.

Melanie Garanin studied animated film-making and illustrated children's and middle-grade/YA books for many years. In 2020, her first graphic novel, that deals with her son's death, Nils. On Death and Anger. And on Courage. was published. In 2025 Carlsen published her highly acclaimed graphic novel on Rainer Maria Rilke.

Third Standalone in the Best-Selling & Multi-Awarded Blind Chicken, Lame Duck Series

- Friendship, quarrelling, and reconciliation told with great humour
- Fully illustrated in colour throughout

Best friends can fall out, but on a birthday? When the blind chicken unwraps the lame duck's gift and finds a vacuum cleaner, she is not impressed. Moments later, the duck gets sucked inside by accident. The chicken follows and together they explore a strange world within the machine.

Witty and inventive, with a mix-and-match chapter for skip-around reading and reader-made decisions.

Everyone loves Christmas, right? Well, not Wilhelmina!

Wilhelmina is so over Christmas. Cookies in math, angels in German, and now a Christmas poem. Grumbling, she starts... and actually enjoys it. Until Robert reads one of her poems to the whole class and makes fun of it. She's furious, and then she draws his name for Secret Santa.

She'd much rather plan her birthday. But with her party the day before Christmas, will anyone even have time to celebrate?

Cosy, Atmospheric Christmas Story Set in a Snow-Covered Boarding School

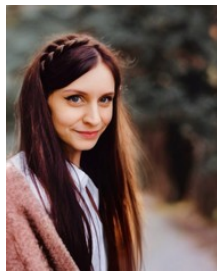

- Magical illustrations and northern lights atmosphere: ideal for the gift market
- For kids who love festive stories with a touch of wonder

Oh my jingle bells! Antonia's family is moving to Finland, and she's supposed to attend a strange school called the Christmas Academy. But once it becomes clear that they have some really amazing subjects there, she's thrilled. Unfortunately, the most exciting subject – Santa Claus Studies – is only for boys.

Well then, Antonia decides to become Toni and show everyone at the academy what girls can do. For example: become Santa! What starts out as a harmless trick quickly turns into a daring game of hide-and-seek.

Mad takes her fate into her own hands. That takes courage. And a few thousand euros.

For Mad, her science club is more than just a chemistry group. It's a safe space for everyone struggling with mental health issues. When a nationwide chemistry competition is announced, Mad is on fire. She's determined to win, because the prize is €10,000 – and Mad needs the money more urgently than ever. But her fears get in the way, and friendships begin to crack. Until she realizes that true greatness doesn't show itself in even the most complex experiment, but in the courage to face the truth and stand up for yourself.

Franziska Höllbacher needs mountains, nature, and many, many bookstores in order to lead a happy life.

Teenage Depression Portrayed with Empathy and Clarity – Relevant and Timely

- Compact format in accessible language – also ideal for reluctant readers
- By a prize-winning author with journalistic expertise

Tabea and Lissy are both 16 and are doing a three-month student exchange – Tabea in Australia, Lissy in the USA. In Australia, Tabea will find her first boyfriend. Lissy, on the other hand, leaves her first love behind in Germany, but her boyfriend wants to wait for her.

The two girls experience very different host families and have to stand their ground in difficult situations. Lissy goes through tear-filled, grey days that she can no longer escape on her own. Tabea, however, finds her way, overcomes the challenges, and returns from the exchange stronger than before.

A Journal-Based Grief Companion for Children and Young People

- Suitable for use in therapeutic, educational, and family settings
- Prompts, space for personal entries, drawings, poems, and memories – structured support for young people in difficult times

Good grief support for children and adolescents who have to cope with a major loss is so important!

Books in particular have always proven valuable in grief support, because they offer calm and space for processing.

Written by Ayse Bosse, a trained grief counsellor whose companion book has helped more than 75,000 families, this journal offers prompts, space for personal entries, drawings, poems, and memories.

What is a fire attack? How is a forest fire put out? And what do firefighters wear on the job? When the alarm sounds, the Mouse is right there with the crew. With detailed illustrations and surprising flaps to lift, this book lets young children take part in the exciting work of the fire brigade.

What makes everyone happy? What can you do when you feel angry or sad? And why do we say sorry? Loving illustrations show how adults and children express their feelings, while flaps reveal good and bad moods in hiding. Info boxes explain what laughing does to our bodies and why tears can flow for so many different reasons.

Conni is absolutely thrilled! She's allowed to go away with Anna and her parents. And in their holiday town there's not only a fairytale castle, but also a big lake where you can go pedal boating.

Luckily, their new friends Fabienne and Max know the area really well, and together they set off. But then a thick fog rolls in, and the children remember the legend of Gunnar the Terrible, whose ghost is said to haunt the lake.

In the end, though, they safely reach the shore – and they've had a truly great adventure.

When Jakob claims to have seen a strange cat in the garden, Conni doesn't believe a word her brother says. But then their tomcat Mau starts behaving oddly. He suddenly seems frightened and hardly wants to go outside. On top of that, his food bowl is constantly empty.

It doesn't take long to find the cause: a stray black cat has decided that the Klawitters' garden is a very cozy place. And she has a very good reason to hide! When Conni's parents want to call the animal shelter, Jakob and Conni quickly set up the "Cat Team," determined to take care of the black cat themselves.

A gentle finger traces shapes on a child's back, and the guessing begins: is it a rainbow, a butterfly, or a flower? Each spread pairs a short, warm story with a matching pattern that grown-ups can trace on the child's skin. Children compare what they see with what they feel, sparking curiosity and leaving room for new ideas.

Creates a calming ritual for the whole family, ideal for afternoons or before bedtime

An opposite pair of friends: mouse and bear. An unusual wish: to celebrate Christmas together (the bear decides not to hibernate this year). Goosebumps: sometimes you need help – even when it comes to opening your presents.

What we take away: Christmas, the festival of twinkling lights, is also the festival of friends and deep emotions.

Over 200 Puzzles That Keep Smartphones Firmly Switched Off

- Comprehensive solutions provide extra knowledge, not just answers
- Devised by puzzle specialists Nikki Busch and Christiane Hahn

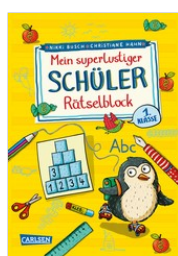

Over 200 pages of puzzles await anyone who enjoys tinkering and solving. Crosswords, number puzzles, sudokus, quiz questions, quirky facts and space for doodling keep boredom at bay, no smartphone required. Detailed solutions do more than reveal the answer, they explain the thinking behind it, so each solved puzzle is a small lesson too.

Nikki Busch is a bestselling author & a specialist in creative thinking.

Step by step towards becoming a little artist!

Animals, people, vehicles and objects from nature are broken into easy stages children can follow on their own, even before they can read. Partly coloured pictures and inviting scenes encourage children to join in, drawing their way from an underwater world to a picnic and even outer space.

With her distinctive, gentle style, Frau Annika repeatedly succeeds in creating new worlds and characters. In drawing, she uses classic sketching and painting techniques, but also digital applications.

Our SWEETHEARTS

Welcome to MONTCREST UNIVERSITY! Class is in session, the evil ones are winning! Dark Accademia Romantasy, deadly sins, good looking guys and girls fighting to be top of the list. The price: to go to hell and free Satan. Wicked! And an appropriately evil ending with a super-sinister cliffhanger! Loved it.

Anna Lott's sense of humor is unbeatable on its own. And now, combined with Thomas Hjorthaab's quirky and slightly spooky illustrations, it becomes the perfect early reader fun. What excites children more than laughing, shivering, and wondering together? That's exactly what early readers will find in TAXI & GRETEL.

Nikki Busch's For Girls Only series bursts with creativity, warmth and heart and encourage girls to explore who they are (with confidence & plenty of sparkle!). MY DIARY is a beautiful space for dreams, thoughts, and ideas. Honestly? I would have loved a journal like this growing up, so much more inspiring than empty pages!
